

---

Luigi Callisto is a full professor of Geotechnical Engineering at the University of Rome La Sapienza, teaching Soil Mechanics and Geotechnical Earthquake Engineering. His most recent research interests have been related to the performance of deep excavations, the seismic design of earth retaining structures, and the effects of soil-structure interaction for bridge foundations and abutments.